

Name of Activity:	Kim's Game quick game to warm girls up at the start of/during virtual meeting
Section(s):
UMA, Skills Builder, other?:	Other
Theme:
Mode of delivery:	Zoom
Time allowed:	10 - 15 mins
Aim:	Memory skills - recall as many items as possible after being shown them for a brief period
What you need:	Every participant needs a pen/pencil and piece of paper Leader needs prepared tray with selection of items
What to do:	Leader prepares tray of items (we used pens, highlighters and other stationery item that would be familiar, kitchen tools, badges etc. I used large pieces of blu-tak to attach them to the tray so I could tilt it towards my webcam - if you're using a phone or tablet then the tray could remain flat. Show the prepared tray to the girls - name each item as you point to it. Tell the girls they have  minutes to try to remember all of the items on the tray. For my Guides I gave them 2 or 3 minutes to remember 15 items - differentiate to suit your members or age group. No one should write anything during this time. Remove the tray and remind the girls how many items there were. Challenge them to *write a list of what they remember. Once ready, ask girls to share their lists - was there anything they didn't remember? Good opportunity to talk about/share the different strategies they used for recall. *Most Rainbows will have phonics skills that will allow them to write a list, younger or less confident girls could be encouraged to draw what they remember if there's not an adult with them to scribe.
