Rainbows

Celebrating 35 years of adventures

Introduction by Tamara Barwick
Girlguiding Kent East County Rainbows Advisor

I took over my rainbow group at 18 and have been in guiding ever since I was 4 and a half. Guiding has always been in my family with my late great gran Floss Cork leading her own brownie unit, I like to hope I'm doing her proud following in her footsteps.

Rainbows is 35 years old this year and to celebrate a challenge has been created to help celebrate our youngest members of our Girlguiding family. The badge is for all sections.

Over the page is an at-a-glance reference of moments in the section's history. Use it as a planner to create your own adventure through time, mixing and matching activities to suit.

Create your own adventure through time...

Choose the stops in your time travelling journey. Mix and match with the activities to create your adventure. There is no minimum requirement and no need to complete something from every category.

Time Travel

Make a clock

Create a clockface, using a split pin. You could position the hand for each year or use it to help you learn about time. Or use a real clock movement with thick card to make your own working clock!

Time hopping

Mix up your meeting, doing things in a different order, as if you're hopping between times. You could start in the middle or the end, and finish at the beginning.

Build a time machine

Create a junk model, hat, backpack, clothing, or go big and build something you can sit in, stand in or crawl through.

Rewind

Pretend you're travelling back in time by doing things backwards. Be careful walking backwards so that you don't bump into each other, obstacles or fall over.

Step in time

Perform an action or say a phrase to continue your journey to the next stop in your adventure through time.

Bunnies

Rainbows origins can be traced back to 1960s Northern Ireland. A group called “Bunnies” was run for girls aged 4 to 7 because they were too young for Brownies.

Bunnies did not have a Promise. Girls had to memorise their name and address.

Following adoption by the Trefoil Guild in Ulster, a programme of badges was introduced in 1980.

In 1985 Bunnies became officially recognised by Girlguiding in the UK and decision was made to launch Rainbows in 1987.

Carrot hunt

Hide carrots, or pictures of carrots, around your meeting place for an egg-hunt style search.

Leapfrog

At least two players are required but as many can play as you have room for!

Start with one player crouched on the floor tucking in their head down and their legs and feet in. The second player runs up to them from behind, placing their hands on their back and leaps over with their legs straddled wide apart on each side.

Once landed, the second player assumed the crouch position and the roles are reversed.

Add more players to increase the line and the number of leaps.

Sack race

Bounce like bunnies and race to the finish line!

Rabbit craft

Get creative! Make a rabbit or a set of bunny ears from junk or craft materials.

Not very bunny!

Can you spot the characters that aren't rabbits? Mix up these two lists and read them out!

Bugs (Bunny)
Rabbit (Winnie the Pooh)
Easter (Bunny)
March Hare (Alice in Wonderland)
Peter (Rabbit, Beatrix Potter)
Benjamin (Bunny, Beatrix Potter)
Thumper (Bambi)
White (Rabbit, Alice in Wonderland)
Energiser (Bunny)
Miffy
Buster Baxter (Arthur cartoon)
Judy Hopps (Zootropolis)
Roger (Who Framed Roger Rabbit)

Clifford (the Big Red Dog)
Donald (Duck)
Daffy (Duck)
Garfield (cat)
Kermit (the Frog)
Snoopy (dog, Peanuts)
Nemo (fish, Finding Nemo)
Jerry (mouse, Tom and Jerry)

Back to the warren

Place several large hula hoops on the floor, representing rabbit holes. Choose someone to be a fox and everyone else to be rabbits. The fox must stand at the side facing away so that they cannot see.

The rabbits move around the space staying away from the hoops. The leader calls out "back to the warren!" The rabbits have 10 seconds to stand within a hoop before the leader calls out "fox!" Rabbits need to squeeze in together to be safe from the fox.

The fox now has 10 seconds to find any rabbits who have one or both feet outside of a hoop and tap them to capture them. They will become foxes too. Reduce the rabbits' head start by 2 seconds (until it is removed completely) and repeat the game until all the rabbits have been captured.

Vegetable patch raid

Can you grab something from the vegetable patch without getting caught?

Place a selection of toy food, balls, or bean bags into a small area at one end of your meeting space. Choose some gardeners to protect the vegetable patch. They can only move side-to-side across the middle of space. Everyone else is a rabbit and must start from and return to the opposite end of the space.

When the leader calls out "go!" the rabbits have 1 minute to grab 1 vegetable each at a time from the patch and bring it back. If a gardener catches them, they must put the vegetable back in the patch and return to the start empty handed to have another go.

Rainbows

Create a real Rainbow

A rainbow appears in the sky when sunlight shines from behind you through rainwater droplets in front of you. The sunlight is split into different colours and takes the form a circular arc.

Use a CD, a DVD, a prism, a glass of water, or fine mist spray, with sunlight or a bright white light to create a Rainbow. A fine mist spray in bright sun will create a Rainbow in mid-air. For other methods reflect the rainbow onto a white or light-coloured surface.

Sorted

Arrange items into the colours of the rainbow.

Grow a rainbow

Grow a rainbow up a paper towel. Along the bottom edge of the paper towel, add different coloured ink, food colouring, or colour in adjacent squares with pens. Place this bottom edge into water and watch as your rainbow grows up the paper towel.

Rainbow on a plate

When you place Skittles sweets in water the food colouring and sugar coating dissolves and spreads. It makes a cool rainbow effect.

Arrange different coloured Skittles around the outside of a plate. Next add a little warm water and watch their rainbow tails grow.

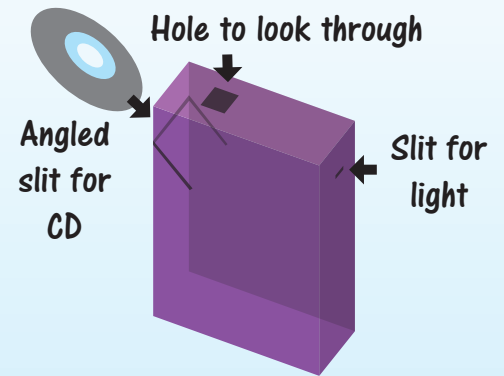

A light study

Light is made up of all the colours of the rainbow. This is called the light spectrum. Every natural element has a characteristic light spectrum, like a finger-print in the light.

Make a working spectrometer using a CD and a cereal box. Cut a slot into the side of the box, at a 30° angle, to slide in the CD shiny side up. Cut out a square on the top of the box, above the CD, to look through. Next cut a very neat slit on the opposite end of the box for the light to go in. The cleaner this is cut the better.

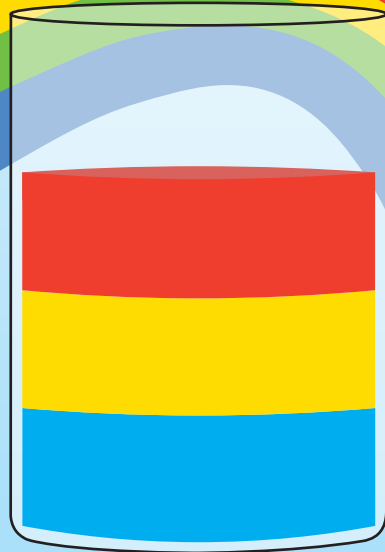

Use your spectrometer with different sources of light, and types of light bulb, to see the different rainbows on the CD.

Rainbow craft

Paint, draw or make a rainbow using craft materials.

There are lots of ideas, including creating a rainbow paperchain, tassels, or a popup card!

Rainbow in a glass

Using food colouring and sugar you can carefully layer different coloured water to create a stack of colours in a glass.

Mixing sugar into water increases its weight. By adding different amounts of sugar to each colour and carefully adding each colour to one glass, you can make a stack. Don't forget to start with the heaviest colour (most sugar) and finish with the lightest.

Celebrate

Throw a party!

Have a disco, play party games, and decorate the room. The fun is endless!

Rainbow Riot

Introduce the other sections to Rainbows. Invade a Rainbows meeting. Visit a Rainbows meeting or invite Rainbows to your meeting.

Birthday cards

Create cards celebrating 35 years of Rainbows. You could swap cards with another unit.

Pamper day

From making face packs to painting nails. What fun could you have with a pamper session?

Colourful drinks

Mix up colourful soft drinks and create interesting new flavours.

Traditions

Have a Rainbow chat

Have a Rainbow chat about turning 35 years old! You could discuss the activities you would like to do to celebrate.

A Rainbow chat is a group discussion like a Brownie pow wow, or Guide Patrol Leaders' Council.

Rainbows song

Perform the Rainbows song. Maybe you could add a special 35 year celebration twist!

*Look at the world around.
Learn everything you can.
Laugh as you go along.
Love this world of ours.*

*Look, Learn, Laugh, Love.
Rainbows have begun.
We're all here now.
Come and join the fun.*

(To say goodbye, the end of the song changes)
*Look, Learn, Laugh, Love.
We've had lots of fun.
Bye bye Rainbows.
Sleep well everyone.*

I promise that I will do my best to think about my beliefs and to be kind and helpful.

The Promise

Practice the Promise. You could make a Promise paperchain, bracelet, magic potion, or another craft.

You could also investigate different Promise traditions that you may encounter on your Guiding journey.

Design a flag

Design a flag for your unit, group, six or patrol.

Going on parade

Have you ever been part of a parade, show or event? Maybe you have attended a religious, thanksgiving or memorial service with your unit.

Take part in an event, go on a parade, if you can, or recreate something in your unit meeting.

World Thinking Day

World Thinking Day is celebrated by girl guides and girl scouts all over the world on 22 February every year. Look at Guiding around the world and find out how your unit fits into the Guiding family.

Play a game

Do you have a game that you play a lot during unit meetings? Maybe you've played Hedgehogs, or Duck, Duck, Goose? Play some group games from past and present.

Camping and sleepovers

There's nothing like the fun of a sleepover, residential or camp and it's an opportunity available to all sections. Maybe you've been away or are going away in your Guiding journey.

If not, you can bring some of the fun to a unit meeting. Pitch a tent and learn what to pack. You could even have a virtual visit to somewhere you'd like to go.

From archery to zip lines, you could bring the activities to your meeting in some form. Look up Magic and Mayhem, Fearless Fun, Wellies and Wristbands, and Sparkle and Ice for some ideas.

Pot of Gold

Rainbows have a special Pot of Gold presentation and celebration when it is time to move on to Brownies.

Create your own miniature pot of gold and reflect on your Guiding journey so far.

Clever campfire

Nothing can be more of a Guiding tradition than a Campfire.

From cardboard cut outs, a simple pile of small logs, to clever lights and special effects, if you can't have a real campfire then there are plenty of ways to recreate the fun.

S'more fun

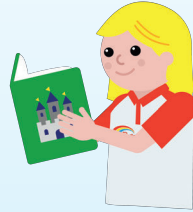

Want some more? You can make s'mores in any setting. You can even use marshmallow fluff and chocolate spread when melting your own isn't an option.

Singing and stories

Bring everyone together for some campfire songs.

If singing isn't your thing, you could tell stories instead.

Start a new tradition

Introduce something new to your unit that you will do on a regular basis, which could be weekly, termly or annually.
